William Glasman, Publisher.
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER.
(Established 1870.)

This paper will always fight for progress and reform, it will not knowingly tolerate injustice or corruption and will always fight democracy of all parties. It will oppose privileged classes and public plunderers. It will never lack sympathy with the poor, it will always remain devoted to the public welfare and will never be satisfied with merely printing news, it will always be drastically independent, and will never be afraid to attack wrong, whether committed by the rich or the poor.

THE WEST ENTIRELY DISREGARDED BY DEMOCRACY

The Democrats evidently are resolved to pass the administration measure which provides for free trade in everything western. Free wool, free sugar are two of the heaviest blows to be struck at the west and, it is our prediction, that in retaliation, the west will cease to vote for Democrats.

The caucus measure now before the senate, if enacted into law, will make the western states so strongly Republican that perhaps not another Democratic governor or senator will be elected in this region during the present generation.

There are many articles of eastern manufacture retained on the protection list, and that fact alone should cause the administration to place a nice balance by extending a sure of protection to the west, yet equalizing of benefit was disregarded to the extent that the heavy burden of a change in tariff policy of government is made to fall almost entirely on western industries such as wool and beet sugar.

Year from now the congressional elections will be held when the voters of democracy should drive the majority from control in the lower house and so weaken the administration in the senate as to leave the democratic leaders helpless in matters of legislation. The administration of Woodrow Wilson from then on will be without constructive power and doomed to utter failure.

DECISION IN THE HARRIMAN CASES

That was good news that the Standard printed yesterday under a Standard line, announcing the acceptance by the federal court of the settlement of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific as agreed their lost ground and recovered every gun they had just lost in this splendid fight.

Of the 4400 men who started with Pickett, 2880 were killed. That would make a line of dead men, if laid shoulder to shoulder, extending over seven of Ogden's long blocks. What a fearful sight! Every brigadier general was killed or wounded; 24 out of 26 regimental officers were missing; 5 colonels of Virginia regiments were killed. One regiment, reduced to 250, came out with only 38 men.

When the Confederates were within easy range, the Union artillery, instead of replying to the guns of the enemy, centered its fire on the charging rebels and nearly 100 twelve-pounders and light field pieces were directed on the exposed southerners.

The rebels must have been possessed of iron nerve to have attempted a charge so desperate and the men of the north, steadfastly facing the oncoming bayonets, must have been none the less heroic.

Gettysburg was a three-days' fight of American against American. The south had but little foreign blood, and there were not many regiments of other than native-born Americans under the command of General George G. Meade, so that, when the carnage ceased, the undulating hills of Gettysburg were crimson with American blood.

Under modern warfare, the third day of the battle of Gettysburg would be almost an impossibility. Modern arms would turn Pickett's charge into a slaughter. Artillerymen who were with the north have told us that their guns were fairly accurate at a quarter of a mile, but beyond that almost useless except in firing at large bodies of men. Today the light field pieces can do great execution at a distance of three miles. The rifles at Gettysburg had a comparatively small range and the process of reloading was so slow that, after the enemy was within the zone of fire, but few volleys could be discharged before the bayonets were required. With the repeating rifles, now in use, that kill at a mile or more, an infantry charge in close formation would mean nothing less than annihilation before the entrenched could be seen by the attacking force.

Fortunately, the improvements in the weapons of war, have done away with the possibility of a repetition of the terrible scenes of the last day of Gettysburg. The hand-to-hand conflicts that marked that tremendous struggle are no longer a part of war, except on a small scale when forts are to be stormed as the last blow of a besieging army.

BUSINESS SHOULD BEGIN TO IMPROVE

That the country has experienced the worst in the present financial crisis, is the opinion of Henry Clews, the New York banker. He says the most unfavorable conditions have been discounted and, from now on, there should be an improvement in business. We quote from his letter as follows:

"It must be recognized that general business is sound, and that outside of real estate operations there have been few signs of overdoing. Merchants and manufacturers have been operating on a hand-to-mouth basis for months past. Supplies of merchandise are, therefore, exceptionally low. For this condition of affairs, there has been mainly responsible. It is now anticipated that the tariff will be settled in either August or September. Business has already very largely adjusted itself to the new schedules, many articles selling on the low tariff basis, and as soon as uncertainty is ended there will be a rush of orders to restore supplies to the normal. Part of these orders will no doubt go to American mills and part will go abroad. In all probability there will be a rush of imports, the effect of which will be to diminish the usual foreign trade balance in the fall. The textile trades are very quiet and many mill shares have shown a severe depreciation owing to tariff agitation and reduced dividends. It is probable, however, that the worst has been seen in this line of industry. The iron trade continues fairly active, and there is no scarcity of orders, although price concessions have occasionally to be made as a stimulant."

Of the money market, the letter says: "There has been moderate improvement in the monetary situation, the conservative policy of the banks pursued for several weeks past having had the intended effect. Last week the surplus reserve of the associated banks of New York had risen to $43,000,000, compared with $39,000,000 a year ago. Loans showed a contraction of $38,000,000 during the last six weeks, and are about $160,000,000 less than a year ago. This strengthening of reserves is not confined to New York, but is also confirmed by the returns now coming in response to the June call for national banks. The principal banks of Europe have also been strengthening their position for some weeks past, showing that the self-righting process in the money market is quietly at work both at home and abroad. In New York call money has been very abundant and easy, while time money continues firm. Preparations for the July disbursements, aggregating over $263,000,000 have had some effect upon the New York market, but this is only temporary, because these sums will be released this week. JUNE WEDDING RECORD BROKEN

Philadelphia, July 1.—Records for the number of June weddings in this city were broken during the month just closed. The number of licenses issued totaled 2,103. This is 176 more than last year for the same month when previous records were broken. Tragedy and comedy were typified in two licenses returned. In one case a young woman reported that her fiancé had been killed in an accident on the day set for the wedding and in the other a young man returned the license declaring that he had "called it off" because "she wants to boss things already, and we are not even married yet."

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF OGDEN CITY

For the purpose of raising means to

Don't Wait

Until they are all gone.
Now is the time to get them and boost Ogden.

The Sugar Pennant

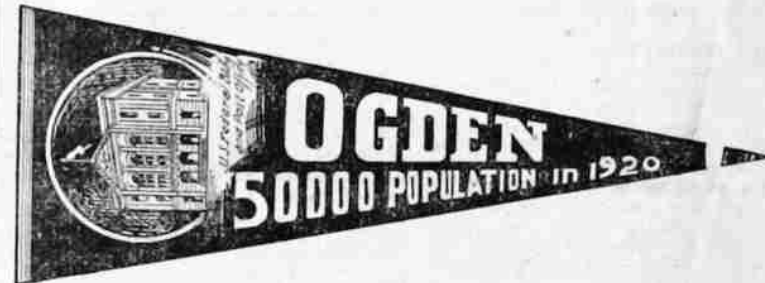

This Pennant suggests on its face that Ogden is the center of a great sugar industry, that the sugar is made from beets and that the Ogden sugar "Beets" the world. How can you advertise Ogden better than to tell the people in the East that sugar grows in Ogden.

The Tomato Pennant

How is this as a boost for the canning factories? Do you want the people of the nation to know that Ogden is in the center of a rich and fertile agricultural district, where vegetables enough are grown to keep fifteen canning factories busy? If you do, send a tomato pennant to the place where it will do the most good.

The Boosters' Pennant

Say, Mr. Real Estate Man, how does the size of the old town strike you? Do you think this pennant can talk for you without making you blush, as it might, when you write it on paper? These pennants are prepared from original designs, made especially for the Ogden Standard. The pennants are for sale by the Standard only, and are sold to subscribers for less than cost. So long as they last they will be sold three for 50 cents, two for 35 cents or one for 20 cents, by mail 5 cents extra each.

Now is the time to say a good word for your city, and say it on a pennant 12x30 inches, beautifully embossed on college felt. Remember the pennant will be used for decorations, and will advertise Ogden for years to come. Call at the Standard office and see them.

carry through the joint agreement between Ogden City and the Ogden River Reservoir company, to build a dam in South Fork to impound a sufficient quantity of water to ensure an ample supply of water for Ogden City during the months of July, August and September. It will be necessary to raise approximately $125,000.00 in addition to the $28,000.00 raised by a two mills levy in 1912.

The Water Works department is now $75,000.00 within the bond limit, having retired $50,000.00 in 1912 and 1913 from revenue derived from the department.

There are two ways of raising this money. First, and in our judgment the better way, by voting bonds in the amount of $75,000.00, which will be paid by revenue derived from the Water Works Department. The only other way to raise this money is by making a direct levy of six mills, payable in the fall of 1913.

The taxpayers are earnestly requested to give this matter careful consideration before passing judgment. And we sincerely hope that the bond issue will be voted, for the reasons above stated, viz: that it may not be necessary to levy a special tax for this purpose.

T. S. BROWNING, Commissioner Public Safety
J. C. NYE, Commissioner Streets and Public Improvements.
